Constitutionality of Legal Tenders

The original legal tender act of January 1862 was introduced in Congress by Hon. E. G. Spaulding, the member from the Buffalo (N. Y.) district. A short time ago he printed a letter addressed to Secretary McCulloch, commending the annual Treasury report and the fidelity of that officer to "the first great and important duty of returning to the specie standard at the earliest possible moment." Briefly recapitulating the facts of the situation seven years since, which led to the adoption of the Legal Tender act as a war measure, one of necessity, under the pressure of a great emergency, "a forced loan, only to be justified on the grounds of necessity," Mr. Spaulding proceeds to remark:

As a war measure passed during war, continuing during the war, and as long as the exigency lasted, I believe it was necessary and proper to successfully carry on the war, and was therefore constitutional. I am equally clear that as a peace measure it is unconstitutional. No one would now think of passing a legal tender act making the promises of the Government (a mere form of credit) a legal tender in payment of "all debts, public and private." Such a law passed while the Government is on a peace footing could not be sustained for one moment.

I think, now, that it is unfortunate that we did not have into the original legal tender act, at the time of its passage, a provision that the legal tender clause should cease to be operative in one year after the close of the war. In that case all parties would have shaped their business accordingly, and the law would have served its purpose as a war measure, and would not have been continued (as I think, unnecessarily) so long after the close of the war.

I see the constitutionality of the law has finally come up for decision before the Supreme Court of the United States at Washington. If the Court had been called upon to decide this question during the war, or at its close, they would most likely have decided that the law was valid, inasmuch as Congress had decided that it was a necessary and proper means to be used in crushing the rebellion; but the law had been continued in force so long after the close of the war without any real necessity for it, that I should not be much surprised if the Court should now declare it to be unconstitutional.

Three great measures were adopted by the Government, which, in my judgment, were necessary to crush the rebellion and maintain the national unity, viz:

1. The legal tender act, by which the credit of the Government was brought into immediate action in the most available form.

2. Emancipation, by which four millions of slaves became intensely interested in the Union cause.

3. The draft, by which the Union army was speedily re-enforced at the turning point of the rebellion.

These three measures, backed by the people, and enforced by the army and navy, finally gave us a national triumph.

If Congress will not act promptly in devising some plan for bringing the legal tender greenback currency on a par with gold, rather than continue the demoralization incident to a postponement of specie payments, it will, perhaps, be as well for the country in the long run, if the Court, on due deliberation, should decide the legal tender clause to be unconstitutional. This would involve serious consequences for a while, and business arrangements would be materially affected, but we would very soon accommodate ourselves to the situation, and we would then emerge from the evils of an irredeemable currency, and all business operations would be established on a firm and enduring basis.

A Dollar or Two.

Saxe's head was clear when he wrote, "There's no friend in need like a dollar or two." There is so much selfishness in human nature that human friends cannot always be relied upon. In time of prosperity a man never lacks for friendship, but let him go down to a low point of adversity, and the chances are that his friends will disappear. But the greenback friend that Saxe talks about can always be depended on. Let a man have a little money at his command and he has a feeling of independence, even under the most discouraging circumstances.

Every man who is obliged to work for a living should make it a point to lay up a little money for that "rainy day" which we are all liable to encounter, when least expected. The best way to do this is to open an account with a savings bank. Accumulated money is always safe, it is always ready for use when needed.

"But," says one, "of what use is the savings bank to me, when I have no money to save—when it takes every cent I can earn to meet my weekly expenses." To such a person we say, open the account anyhow. Scrape together your five dollars, make your deposit, get your bank book, and then resolve to deposit a given sum, small though it be, once a month, once a fortnight, or once a week, according to the circumstances. Don't say that you can't spare anything from your weekly salary. Make the deposit, and we will guarantee that what is left will carry you through. Nobody knows without trying it, how easy a thing it is to save money when an account with the bank has been opened. The secret of it lies here: Without a bank account a man feels no restraint upon his purchases. He buys this thing believing that he needs it; and he buys another thing, making himself believe that he needs it also. The fact is, he might as well do without both these things, and would do without both these things if he had that incentive to save his money which results from having an account with the bank. With such an account a man always feels a desire to enlarge his deposit. It gives him free lessons in frugality and economy. It weans him from habits of extravagance, and is the best guard in the world against intemperance, dissipation and vice. Every working man should in duty to himself and family, have an account with a savings bank. Remember—"there is no friend in the world like a dollar or two."

A GAME OF OLD "SLEDGE."—A California correspondent says: "I was a passenger on a steamer from Panama to San Francisco when the rush of travel on that line was immense. We were badly crowded, and there was no room for the chairs or tables, yet we were bound to have our game of 'old sledge.' A Baptist minister, with a lust for gold, had deserted his flock and occupied a sleeping place on the cabin floor. He was a large, corpulent man, and, finding him a sound sleeper, four of us squatted around him and commenced playing on his broad stomach, scoring the points of the game on his black vest. We played for several hours undisturbed, except by an occasional snore of uncommon force. I had won considerable, and one of my opponents, Jim Doyle by name, becoming excited at my turning up 'Jack,' brought down his fist upon the lower part of the parson's stomach with great power. The pious old gentleman was awakened thereby, and looked up with some surprise; but seeing the state of the case, quietly remarked: 'Go on with your game, boys, but if you are going to pound me in that manner you had better let me turn over.'"

CUSTOM OF THE LONDON "TIMES."—An American gentleman, who was lately in London, desired an advertisement inserted in the London Times. It was on Thursday that he carried it to the office, requesting it to be inserted the next morning, and at the same time asking the price to be paid.

"It will be seven and sixpence," was the reply, "and will go in as soon as possible."

"But when will that be?" inquired the gentleman.

"Oh! by Monday or Tuesday," replied the clerk.

"Put it in to-morrow," persisted the gentleman, "for I must remain in London for that alone. I will gladly pay any price."

The clerk was unmoved. "We don't do business in that way!" he replied, gravely.

That an office worth $12,000 a year should be resigned to enable the incumbent the appointment of Supervisor of Internal Revenue, argues either that the gentleman doing this is exceedingly patriotic or expects to realize at least $12,000 from the $3,000 office. To illustrate: Col. Young is Recorder of Hamilton county, Ohio, an office worth $3,000. It is true that the $3,000 office is nearly related to the Whisky Ring, whereas the $12,000 office has not the remotest relation to that mysterious circle. The reader can draw his own conclusions.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE ...

DATES TO JANUARY 14.

Destructive Fire in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—A fire this forenoon totally destroyed Caldwell's jewelry store, corner of Ninth and Chestnut streets. Howell Brothers' paper hanging warehouse and Kerrick's art gallery were also burned. Seven clerks sleeping in the second story barely escaped with their lives. Caldwell's loss is unknown. It is supposed that quantities of valuable diamonds, etc., will be recovered in the safes. Howell's loss is a quarter of a million. Caldwell's loss outside of the safes is valued at $250,000. Ames' stock of carpets $100,000. Two clerks who slept in the store are missing. Both are supposed to have perished. Total loss $800,000.

Washington News.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—A Washington special says a careful canvass of the Senate shows that their sentiments generally favor a repeal of the tenure of office law. It is thought the bill will not be acted on till near the close of the session. Senator Ferry says the repeal now might defeat the Republicans in Connecticut next election, as he believes every Republican in office would be turned out.

The President has nominated Perry Fuller as Collector of Customs for New Orleans; John Savage as Consul at Leeds, England, and N. P. Langford as Governor of Montana.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The President has accepted the report of the Government Commissioners upon an additional section of twenty miles of the Central Pacific Railroad and telegraph line. The termination is now 170 miles east of Sacramento. He has directed the bonds to be issued to the company.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—In the Senate, Wilson introduced a bill to amend the Tenure of Office Act of March 2, 1867, which was referred to the Joint Committee on Retrenchment.

Kellogg introduced a bill incorporating a company under the name of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company—capital, $100,000,000—to construct a railroad and telegraph line from Fulton, Arkansas, to the crossing of Trinity river, between the thirty-second and thirty third parallel, to Elpha, on the Rio Grande; thence through New Mexico and Arizona, to a point on the Colorado, near the southeastern boundary of California; thence to San Francisco, California, with branches to some point near San Diego. The bill grants twenty sections per mile on each side of the line and six per cent. thirty year Government bonds to the amount of seventy thousand dollars per mile in New Mexico and Arizona and sixteen thousand dollars for the rest of the line, secured by a second mortgage.

The Committee on Naval Affairs reported adversely on the memorial of Commodore Meade to be restored to the active list.

Morton introduced a bill giving a pension to the widow of President Lincoln. Sumner suggested to make the pension $5,000. Referred to the Committee on Pensions.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the Sue Murphy bill during the discussion.

Wilson proposed the creation of a Board, consisting of Generals Meigs, Thomas, Howard and Elkins, to examine and report on the claims of loyalists, to sit for two years from April next. The Senate adjourned without action.

In the House the Niagara ship canal bill was postponed until after the morning hour.

Ashley, of Ohio, from the Committee on Territories, reported a bill to dismember Utah and divide the greater part of that territory among Colorado, Montana, Wyoming and Nevada. Ashley said the bill was not designed to interfere with the settled portion of Utah, but was intended to take away so much that there could not be enough left to make a State. He consented to postpone the bill two weeks.

Ashley also introduced a bill to secure purity in elections and for protection against illegal voting and fraudulent returns.

The Niagara ship canal bill was discussed at length.

Washburne desired a time fixed for taking the vote on the bill. There was considerable conversation on the subject, but no conclusion was reached as to what time the vote shall be taken. Adjourned.

Indiana Senator

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 14.—A Republican Legislative caucus to-night nominated Lieutenant Governor Cumback for United States Senator.

Miscellaneous

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Western Union Telegraph 53½.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 14.—Jo. Cullender, a notorious negro horse thief, was taken from jail at Murfreesboro last night by the Ku Klux Klan and nothing has been heard of him since.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

GLASGOW, Jan. 14.—The Prince of Wales Theater was burned last night. No lives were lost.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The press of London and Paris almost unanimously condemn the attitude of Greece in insisting on representation in the conference.

The steamship Great Eastern has commenced taking on board the submarine cable of the Franco American Telegraph Company. It is expected she will sail in June next and lay the cable from Brest to the American coast.

It has been agreed that the Powers represented in the Conference on the Eastern question shall not, by reason of their participation in the conference, be held bound to enforce their conclusion.

MADRID, Jan. 14.—A tumult occurred in Sortora yesterday between the Liberal and Carlist parties. It was promptly suppressed by the authorities, and the city is now quiet. The journals here urge the Government to use all means to strengthen the hands of General Dulce in Cuba and demand that ten thousand additional troops be sent him to render the possession of the island secure. The authorities have received a telegram from the Captain General Dulce, asking for reinforcements for Cuba. He thinks he can suppress the insurrection with three or four thousand more troops.

Webster on Legal Tender.

Some remarks which Webster made on legal tender in 1836 have been widely quoted to show that Congress had no constitutional power to issue the legal tender notes now in circulation. In considering this question the Sacramento Union gives the following interpretation to what Webster said:

The remarks of Webster were made with reference to the notes of the United States Bank (which never were made a legal tender), and would equally apply to the National Bank notes, which are not now a legal tender. We may even admit his opinion goes to the extent of holding that no law can prevent gold and silver from being a legal tender, which the Legal Tender Act does not, since it still leaves specie free to be used. The word he uses is "substitute"—that is displace. And he is speaking simply of the power to coin money, not referring at all to the power to borrow money. He was not able to refer to the latter power, in the debate he was engaged in, for there was no loan under consideration. Congress was only contemplating the expediency of making bank notes legal tender, under its power "to coin money and regulate its value." It is obvious that no such liberty attaches itself to that power. But how does this apply to the greenbacks? They do not profess to be money. There is no inscription upon them such as "This is one dollar, lawful money of the United States." The legend they bear is: "The United States promise to pay to bearer one dollar," etc. That stamps their character not as money, but as a loan—as McCulloch himself says, "a forced loan." The question is not, then, whether the Government can "coin paper dollars," thereby declaring a patent falsehood, but whether it can make its loans legal tender, in order to float them and compensate the holder for lack of interest. This turns upon the extent to which the power to borrow is given to Congress—a matter Webster did not consider at all, as it was not involved in the proposition before him. Now it is unquestionable that the power to borrow money is conceded in the Constitution, with as little limitation or qualification as the power to tax—even less. Congress is confined in its taxing power to certain subjects and to certain modes; but within these the extent of power, like its nature, is held to be illimitable. But the power to borrow money is without reserve. The amount and the mode is left entirely to the discretion of Congress. Does not then, a "forced loan" come clearly within the power to borrow money? Is not the Government free to issue its notes without interest, and to compensate the holders by making them a legal currency? Not to "substitute" them in place of coin, but to enable holders to make and complete contracts in them. We will not deny that the enforced payment of previous contracts in such notes is a substitution, and a wrong one, but the Legal Tender Act need not and ought not to have been construed in that way. To that extent, decisions upon it may rightly be reversed, and it will be no injustice for those who agreed to pay gold to have it still to pay. But for the Supreme Court to decide that contracts made in view of the present paper currency must be fulfilled in another is not politic or just. That, too, violates the obligation of contracts. This interference with prior contracts constituted the wrong of applying the greenbacks to gold debts. It was taking a perverse view of the Legal Tender Act, and regarding the greenbacks as money instead of a "forced loan"—as dollars instead of promises to pay dollars. Under the Act, we are simply using the credit of the nation ... its notes of hand about, having given ourselves this privilege as some compensation for their bearing no interest. This expedient was adopted by the people themselves under their sovereign power to borrow (not to coin) money. It is a mutual agreement to use the notes as currency till we can redeem them. We see nothing unconstitutional about it, because there is no constitutional limitation whatever upon the power to borrow money, —either as to amount or mode. Webster's remarks do not apply to the case.

A correspondent of the New York Times says that Jefferson was saved from pecuniary embarrassments only by his Monticello farm; that Madison, after his retirement, with difficulty kept up a respectable appearance at Montpelier, and that his widow supported herself by the sale of the "wreck of personal effects;" that Monroe ... "absolutely destitute" before he died; that Jackson had hardly money enough to entertain visitors at the Hermitage, and states other facts showing the painful impecuniosity of Presidential incumbents.

Cheap Telegraphing.

The proposition for the Government to assume control of the business of telegraphing throughout the country is supported by many of the most influential journals. But on the other hand there are those who oppose the scheme, urging such objections as the following which appeared recently in the Oregon Herald:

> This project should meet, at once, with the hearty condemnation of the press and the people, regardless of political bias. The same plea that would justify the Federal Government in assuming charge of the telegraph would justify it in claiming control of express business, and eventually in taking charge of the railroads. * * We have seen already the vast influence the telegraph has had in swaying the public mind by its colored and partisan dispatches previous to elections, at the instance of partisan operators; yet this, to a certain extent, could be counteracted by private enterprise, as any person could command its service for a price, but place the telegraph once in the hands of the Government and private citizens would have no recourse. The bulletins it furnished would be of the same unreliable and distorted character as some of them were during the war, when the War Department usurped their control. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," and the people of this country should see to it that all such schemes of centralizing power in the Federal Government should be rebuked at once, if they wish to preserve in any degree the rights reserved to them and to the States, guaranteed to us by the Constitution, and for which our patriotic ancestors freely poured their blood.

Here is this same monster, "centralization," [illegible] up again. Old Proteus never came up out of the sea in more shapes than this imaginary monster assumes. All our experience as a nation has shown that the danger to our form of government is from State encroachments, not from an excess of Federal power. This is the greatest lesson taught by our bloody war.

Every argument used by the Herald to show why the Government should not control the telegraph applies with equal force against allowing it to control the mails. There is as much reason to fear "centralization" from the one as from the other.

Why does the Government assume the difficult and costly service of carrying the mails? Clearly for no other purpose than the convenience of the people. If it assumes control of the telegraph it will be for a like reason. The object will be to afford facilities for the cheap and rapid transmission of intelligence; to do telegraphing at such rates as will bring this method of communicating intelligence within the reach of all classes of people. But when the Government proposes to [illegible] the people in this way, a Dark Age party among us cry out "centralization," and assert that the scheme is an assault upon our liberties!

It is said that if the Government takes control of the telegraph the bulletins it would furnish would be of a distorted, unreliable and [illegible] character. Now it would furnish just what any one wishing to use the telegraph might send or order to be sent, and nothing more. It would cost the Herald but a small [illegible] the leader out of Brick Pomeroy's paper telegraphed every day for the delectation of the Oregon Ku-Klux. The telegraph, by being made a cheap medium of intelligence, would be freely used by all classes, and would confer great benefits on the whole people. It might become even a greater public [illegible] than the service now rendered by the mails. That [illegible] of partial insanity, which develops itself continually in the cry of "centralization," no matter what subject is under discussion, is one of the most painful maladies this country ever witnessed.

The Niagara Ship Canal.

Another stupendous national enterprise is the projected ship canal around the falls of Niagara. The proposition to build this canal is before Congress, and we may expect that action will be taken on it without delay. The bill [illegible] is similar to the one which was brought before Congress about a year ago, but not acted upon. That bill [illegible] for a ship canal around the falls, said canal to be not less than 105 feet wide on [illegible] the bottom [illegible] feet [illegible], and authorized the President to appoint three engineers to make a survey and map and profile of the route of such canal; and [illegible] to secure the right of way and the [illegible] of the necessary land and all the necessary legal preliminaries. The Secretary of War then to cause said canal to be [illegible], commencing within twelve months after the passage of the act, and prosecute the [illegible] diligently to completion. The said canal [illegible] navigation to be open to use and navigation by all vessels of the United States free of toll or charge, and by any foreign vessel at the same rates charged upon the Welland Canal in 1864. [illegible] one year after the completion tariff [illegible] tolls to be established sufficient to defray the actual expense of operating and maintaining the [illegible] in good order and repair, and the ordinary rate of [illegible] on the cost of the work. The bill [illegible] $12,000,000 to carry the work through.

Gen. Humphreys, of the United States Engineers, [illegible] to Congress at the last session a report of his surveys and various plans for the canal. He reported seven practicable routes, varying [illegible] from 7.65 to 25 miles. The cost of each of the routes was estimated at from $11,000,000 for the shortest to $14,000,000 for the longest. About twenty locks will be required with lifts of 15 feet each. This is an enterprise which would be of incalculable advantage to the "Great West." All the members from that section are supporting it, the Democrats included, who seem to have utterly forgotten their former constitutional objections to internal improvements by the General Government.

IDAHO STATISTICS.—From the report of the Comptroller of Idaho we take the following statistical facts in regard to the affairs of that Territory. Cash paid into the Treasury from the various counties for the first three quarters of 1868, $37,529 38; expenses of collecting the same, $12,658 92; total, $50,188 30. The total amount of indebtedness of the Territory up to December 1st, 1868, less $8,177 94 now in the Treasury, is $104,924; uncollected taxes as per assessment roll, $32,493 20, official total vote for Delegate to Congress in 1866 was 6,564, in 1868, 5,634. Estimated number of inhabitants, 25,000- Chinamen, 1,500. Forty-eight claims, amounting to 7,680 acres, have been entered at the U. S. Land Office for homesteads. Two hundred and twenty claims have been pre-empted, amounting to 32,797 acres. Three townships have been surveyed under appropriations of last year, principally along Boise River.

"OUR BRUTUS."—A late number of the La Crosse Democrat speaks of Booth the assassin, as "Our Brutus, dear to every patriot in the land." The Democrats of Walla Walla sent this editor a gold medal a few weeks ago. Of such is modern Democracy.

The Present Age and its Predecessors.

The San Francisco Times begins the year with some mournful remarks, drawn out at great length, on the degeneracy of these times. It thinks the effeminacy of our men and the extravagance of our women presage the fate of the Republic. It sees in America the unhappy symptoms which preceded the downfall of Rome. "We seem," says that journal, "to have approached a crisis in our career, and whether we advance in solid phalanx, or disintegrate and fall asunder, may depend upon the events of the next decade."

We notice what the Times says on this subject because it is the echo of croakings which are heard in every generation, and which are now not less loud and noisy than they have ever been. This habit of lamenting the degeneracy of the times is a very old one. Nearly three thousand years ago, old Nestor, as we read in the Iliad, moralized on the same subject. The race of men, in his judgment, was becoming effeminate; the times were out of joint, and human affairs, generally, were in a bad way. He talked long and regretfully of the times of his early manhood, when men were valorous and strong, and when they disdained the corrupt and softening arts of the later times. From the days of Nestor until now there have been men who have harangued in this gloomy strain; yet the world has advanced somehow, in spite of their sad reflections and melancholy forebodings.

The moralist who talks about the effeminacy of men of this generation, as compared with their predecessors, is not likely to obtain much honor among the thinking people of America. Look at the events of the last ten years. Do they indicate that our men have lost their energy and valor, and our women their patience, faith and virtue? Let the unexampled conflict of arms through which we have passed, answer. Behold the gigantic enterprises which are in progress in all parts of the country; look at the constantly increasing energy which is being manifested in the prosecution of every scheme which business enterprise can reach; see the efforts not less systematic and general for the advancement of education and science and for the propagation of religion; take notice how men and women are striving in all these pursuits as they never strove before, and then tell those who are continually indulging their propensity to [illegible] a degenerate age to go with their gloomy song, if they find it relieves them!

The extravagance of our women, and their indulgence in dress and frivolity, is urged as another symptom of national decay. Doubtless there is too much of this indulgence; but not more, all things considered, than there has been in other times. It is true that so judicious and philosophical a writer as Tacitus, in the third book of his Annals, speaks of something like this as one of the symptoms of Roman decay; but the state of society in those times is not, in any respect, to be compared with the state of society now. There is more wealth and more trade now than there was then. There is a more general distribution of wealth. Articles of luxury are more common and less costly; and many things which were formerly deemed luxuries are now considered absolute necessaries. This adds to human comfort and enjoyment, [illegible] generally considered as proof of a better state of civilization, rather than an indication that the present age, by reason of riotous living, is declining in prudence, energy, wisdom and virtue.

PAINFUL.—The Commercial is terribly excited. It is actually boiling over with indignation. To our remark that "the Chinaman is not in the way of any white man or woman who possesses energy and intellect," it responds, "Oh! cruel, cruel words!" Now we wonder whether our neighbor is afraid that some impudent Chinamen or other will crowd him out of the newspaper business? Painful as the necessity is, it is clear that all who cannot keep ahead of "inferior races" are doomed to fall behind.

Lady Teachers.

Why should not women have as much pay as men for doing the same work? The labor performed should be rewarded and not the sex! On this subject a writer in the California Teacher says:

> "Teaching is the highest rank of labor the majority of American women can follow. There are few disposed or fitted to go beyond it. Outside of home it is her peculiar work, and no man with a soul will crowd her out of it. It is for the glory and good of America that so many of her pure minded women can have this large field of noble labor opened to them, and every citizen should be jealous of her rights in it, for, like a protecting angel, she stands between the home and the penitentiary. There is something in the monotonous routine of school life that has a tendency to make a man insipid, unreliable and effeminate, while in a lady it has the opposite effect; it developes her power of self-reliance, and makes her stronger, perhaps masculine. But which can the world best afford to have, the character of women made more positive and reliant, or the character of the man made weaker? Surely, no thoughtful person can assert the latter. The pedagogue's chair is a good stepping-stone to something higher for men, and many a profound statesman or divine has ascended above it with glory, while, if they had remained in it, they would have become fossilized 'dough-heads.'
> But, there is a more [illegible] view of this question, if justice cannot be granted, and that is, the equality of personal expenses in living. Traders and boarding house keepers make no distinction in their prices. A lady pays as much for board and washing as a man, and as a rule the bills at the end of a month are [illegible] for a lady. How can she meet this equality of expense, if obliged to take for her superior labor the unequal pay? It is well known that lady teachers are expected to dress in better style than most laborers, even in the school room, and male principals have even gone so far in their exacting prejudice as to recommend the dismissal of otherwise good teachers, simply because they did not dress elegantly enough to suit them; yet, such men can daily appear before our growing boys and girls with mouths reeking with tobacco, breath strong with liquor, and sometimes with language anything but refined. By what code of morals or justice such things can be sanctioned by a Christain and moral people, is past the comprehension of the writer of this."

No man who drinks liquor or uses tobacco in any form should be permitted to teach in any school. Abstinence from these should be classed among the first qualifications in a teacher. Would a woman addicted to the habit be allowed to teach? Then why should a man?

Professor Huxley, in his lecture on a piece of "Chalk," says it has been shown that the whole route of the Atlantic telegraph cable would be a practicable road for a wagon if the water were removed and a great part of the way a level road; that the mud at the bottom of the sea is chalk, and the evidence is to his mind conclusive that the chalk cliffs of England, and all the chalk formations of the globe, were once the bottom of the sea. The chalk formations cover an area of the earth equal in extent to the whole of Europe.

A writer in the Atlantic Almanac declares that it is not true that we have in North America no genuine bona fide skylark. There is found in the far northwestern table-lands of Dacotah a bird which in its peculiar and remarkable powers of song, and, in its general habits, is an almost exact representation of the skylark of Europe. This is an interesting fact, and one not generally known.

ALASKA, A PENAL COLONY.—The Eastern press are agitating the question of making Alaska a penal Colony. The New York Post says they have been in the habit of exiling their scum to California, and thinks it would be fairer to make a penal Colony of Alaska, with the understanding that all the States send their refuse material, in the shape of human flesh, to their new Botany Bay.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO JANUARY 14.

A Sensational Story

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—It is stated that Martin, the individual who professes to be able to give full information relative to the Alaska bribery, is in Washington, but he never appeared before the Committee. He boasts he can prove that Secretary Seward urged Baron Stoeckl to oil the wheels of the Legislative machinery, and names sundry persons to whom various sums were paid, from ten to five hundred thousand dollars each, to assist in the passage of the appropriation.

Minnesota Senator

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The Republican caucus of the Minnesota Legislature nominated Alexander Ramsey for United States Senator, last night.

Chauncey Bailey shot and instantly killed Jas. A. Laird, at Naperville, Illinois, yesterday, having discovered him in the act of adultery with his (Bailey's) wife. Laird was recently Sheriff of Cheyenne county, Dakota.

Judge Aaron Taylor, a well known lawyer of this city, died recently. A short time previous to his death, Taylor was brutally treated by a policeman in a Justices' office, acting under the orders of the Justice. The members of the bar have been investigating the case and have arrived at the conclusion that this outrageous and unwarrantable treatment caused his death and have appointed a Committee to prosecute Justice Mulligan and the policeman concerned in the beating, for manslaughter. They have also unanimously tendered their gratuitous services to the relatives of the deceased, should they determine to institute a civil suit for damages. Judge Taylor has relatives in California.

Marine Disaster.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Jan. 15.—The steamer Gulf City, from Galveston to New York, went aground on Monday night, off Point Lookout, and in a few hours was dashed to pieces. Only three persons of twenty-five aboard the steamer have been saved.

Horrible Brutality.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 15.—A few nights since a man named Weathers, living in the lower part of the city, while under the influence of liquor, asked his little boy, four years of age, to spell a word which it was impossible for the child to do. Weathers then seized him by the hair, picked up a stick and beat the child until the flesh of its body was lacerated in many places. He heeded not the cries of the little one, who plead for mercy. He then picked it up and held it over a hot fire in the stove till nearly its whole body was burned to a blister.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—The Conference held another session to-day. Mr. Van Gabber, the Greek Minister, was absent. The press of the city generally urge the continuance of the Conference. It is understood that Greece is preparing a diplomatic circular to the Foreign Powers, on the question at issue.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The papers publish a letter from Minister Johnson, in reply to a query from the Emigration Society, respecting the naturalization of British subjects in the United States. Mr. Johnson says that naturalized citizens are clothed with the protection of America precisely the same as the native born citizens, and are entitled to all our rights. The United States will protect such citizens if they return to their native country the same as those living in the United States.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—A committee of the California Immigrant Association, of this city, is investigating the subject of a concern calling itself the Immigration Homestead Association of California, which has advertised largely in all Eastern papers, but as the committee alleges have never paid any bills. The inference conveyed by the published report of the committee is that the Immigration Homestead Association is a swindling concern.

Henry Logan is not expected to live but a few hours. Genviero, who shot him, has not yet been discovered.

Last evening a man who gave his name as Morrill, was arrested for an attempt to commit an outrage on a little girl only five years of age, a daughter of Walter Castilio.

The repairs on the City Hall are progressing. The brick work is all completed and the roof is now being tinned.

The Commissioner of Immigration received from the Pacific Mail Steamship Company $23,000, forfeited to the Government, the penalty for violation of the passenger act.

The ships Midnight and Nevada arrived at New York yesterday in 110 and 115 days, hence.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 15.—One more death last night from small pox. No new cases reported today. All the cases at the hospital are doing well. Only two cases in town now, and they are considered very doubtful of recovery.

THE EPIDEMIC AT JACKSONVILLE.—The Sentinel of the 9th inst. contains the following in regard to the terrible epidemic which is afflicting that town:

> We are sorry to say that since our last issue, the small pox has spread here at an alarming rate. Since last Saturday two deaths have taken place and twelve new cases have been reported in the town and vicinity. At present there are thirteen very severe cases under treatment, and there seems to be no indication that the course of the epidemic is checked. Since the first case made its appearance we can count thirty-seven cases that have spread from it, five of which have terminated fatally, nineteen of which are considered convalescent, and the thirteen referred to under treatment. At the County pest house there are nine cases under treatment, and on Kanaka Flat four; the latter are all of the confluent type, and two of the former are dangerous and critical. The exposure has been so great that we expect to record the continued ravages of the terrible disease, but trust that faithful nursing will save the most of those who have been unfortunate enough to contract it. All business has been by general consent, except in two instances, suspended. In those, the pecuniary benefit realized will probably be of a doubtful character, as public opinion in times of public calamity is powerful; and the people will not soon forget the mercenary motive that prompts a defiant exhibition of selfishness. We hope the worst has come, but we are not justified in saying that it has, and we again urge every one to avoid exposure, and if not vaccinated to be so at once.

INCOMES AS RETURNED AND VOTERS.—The San Francisco Call remarks:

> At the recent Presidential election something like six millions of votes were cast, out of a population of nearly thirty nine millions. The Internal Revenue Department statistics show that only two hundred and thirty thousand persons, out of the whole population, return an income of one thousand dollars and over. Of the voting class less than three per cent. realized a net income last year of one thousand dollars and over. Farmers are the favored class. No matter what may be the size of the families dependent upon the products of their farms, if their sales, not counting what they consume, do not exceed one thousand dollars, they report no income; while a person living in a city, who earns one thousand dollars, net, let his legitimate family expenses be what they may, must pay an income. These figures show how few people make a comfortable living, and how very few have a clear income of one thousand dollars and more. The total amount of tax paid was, in round numbers, $32,000,000. This, equally distributed among those who paid an income tax, would give to each an income of $2,782. Measured by actual income in cash, the proportion of rich men in the United States is small; but incomes, as in the case of men who own farms, or whose capital employed in business last year did not yield a profit, is not a fair measure of wealth.

Fourier states that, in the progress of the world the ocean is to lose its saltness and acquire the taste of a peculiarly flavored lemonade.

STATE ITEMS.

The Unionist learns that Jesse R. Luse, son of H. H. Luse of Coose Bay, died at San Francisco about the 1st inst. of small pox.

The farmers of the John Day country, though having large lots of grain on hand, are making extensive preparations for crops next season.

Says the Mountaineer: We learn from a very creditable source that Gov. Woods will not call an extra session of the Legislature. All the Republicans in this section that we have heard express themselves on this question, are with the Governor.

A LADY SUED FOR BREACH OF PROMISE OF MARRIAGE.—A London paper says: An inquiry took place recently before the Court of Queen's Bench in Dublin, and a jury to assess damages in an action brought to recover compensation laid at £2,000 for breach of promise of marriage. The plaintiff, Mr. Thomas Jackson Louth, in 1860, entered into an engagement to marry the female defendant, Mrs. Rowland, then Miss Smith, who also lived in the county of Louth. After some time the engagement was broken off, and the plaintiff then went to New Westminster, in British Columbia. While there a correspondence was opened between him and Miss Smith, which led to a renewal of the marriage engagement. The letters that passed were of the most affectionate character, and prophesied the happiness the parties would enjoy when the engagement was ratified. In August, 1867, the plaintiff sold off his farm in British Columbia to come home and get married. When he reached Canada, a letter awaited him from Miss Smith, stating that she could not really love him, that the supposed affection was a mistake, and that the engagement must be broken off. She shortly after married Mr. Rowland, who wrote to the plaintiff, stating that he had long possessed the affections of the young lady. The letters between the parties were read to the jury, and the injury to the plaintiff by the lady's recession from her engagement commented on. It was alleged that the plaintiff disposed of his farm, and left British Columbia only because he expected to marry the defendant. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff—damages two hundred pounds.

SOIL, WATER AND TIMBER OF THE GREAT PLAINS.—An exchange gives the following capabilities of the desert plains, east of the Rocky Mountains:

> All that appears necessary to secure a rapid growth of trees is to preserve the country from periodical conflagrations. In the neighborhood of Omaha a farm of only a few years standing has oak, walnut, cottonwood and other descriptions of timber, from a foot to eighteen inches in diameter upon it in abundance, sufficient for the fuel and fencing demands of the place. With regard to water, it is evident from the wells along the route of the Pacific Railroad, that heavy streams permeate the land but a shallow depth below the surface. The finest vegetables are produced to the very top of the divide, and the most nutritious grasses are found in the same high altitude. Nature made ample provision in that region for the sustenance of innumerable herds, and tame cattle, doubtless, can live and fatten on the same provender. Leaving out of view the cultivation of corn, wheat and other grains, still as a pastoral country its resources are rich and desirable. Sheep prosper on the grand plains, and horses and cattle can be reared there most successfully.

HOW THEY MAKE LORDS IN ENGLAND.—In 1861, during the premiership of Lord Palmerston, little Lord John Russell was found one too many in the House of Commons; a fifth wheel, in very truth. Palmerston liked to do his own leadership in the Lower House, and did not relish Russell's perpetual interference—for the little man, stammering and stuttering, haw-hawing and mouthing, [illegible] for the pleasure of hearing his own voice, often committed his principal. So, one moonlight evening, as they were walking home together, after a damaging debate provoked by one of Russel's confessions or admissions, Palmerston quietly asked Russell what rank in the peerage he would like, and what title he would select—it being his intention to recommend the Queen, in acknowledgment of his long services, to bestow a peerage upon him. Russell was silly enough to accept a dignity which took him out of the Commons and put him on the shelf in the Lords. He was created Earl Russell and Viscount Amberley, and has been of small account ever since.—Philadelphia Press.

The Boston Transcript says: "Mr. Johnson's salary is $25,000 a year. We think it would not be a bad idea to pay in a Treasury bond for that amount, on interest, due in seventeen years, with the provision that the interest, as it accrues, be deducted from the principal, instead of being paid to Mr. Johnson."

"Mother, have I got any children?" asked an urchin of eight summers. "Why, no. What put that in your head, my boy?" "Because I read in a book to-day about children's children." "Here, Biddy, the child is feverish; wash him in ice water, and put him to bed."

Cornelius Vanderbilt is reported to have made $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 out of his great corner in New York Central. His late movement is considered the greatest financial coup d'etat Wall Street has ever known.

BUSINESS ITEM.—While some men are trucks to bear the burdens of the earth, or furnace-grates to bear the fires and to be consumed in obscurity, other are driving-wheels, which give life and motion to all with whom they are connected. Kohn & Fishel, the leading Dry Goods merchants of Portland, are the driving-wheels of trade in that city. They conceived and carried on to completion a work nobler than the Pyramids, grander than the gardens of Nineveh, or the walls of Babylon; for their work is not a monument for the dead, neither the gratification of a luxuriant fancy, but it is a new pathway for purchasers, a link to bind the chain of families and the hearts of men.

[illegible] KLUX CORRESPONDENCE.—The public has heard of the employment of Chinese laborers in the woolen factory at Oregon City, and of the Ku Klux-Anti-Chinese meeting held at that city last week. It seems that beside the published proceedings of the anti-Chinamen, they have taken other measures to protect themselves from the encroachments of Chinese laborers. Not content with ad[illegible] the proprietors of the mill, through the resolutions of a public meeting, they have sent them several [illegible] warnings in the regular Ku-Klux vernacular. Here is one sent to Mr. Jacobs some time since, which relates only to the reduction of wages. We give it verbatim et literatim:

"Jacob Brothers you have been the meens of cutting the wagers down all over the Cost by comencing it in the Oregon City factory and we from this time forced Contineu you never to lower the wagers a nother Cent if you do it will bee at the expense of your lives for we are formed in Gangs and Companys all over the Cost and are bound to [illegible] our rights with the bullet if necsary there wis no such thing till you Come and we will not have any such thing now or you will know the results the oregon City. [illegible] after this mill for their own benefit and are bound to [illegible] work or deth will be the Results we Meen what we say. by order of Comunity."

The above did not produce any practical results. The managers went on as before, paying such "wagers" as they could afford and could agree upon with employees. Within the last few days the following epistle was received at the mill:

"Mr. R. Jacob of the Factory. Dear Sirs—As a [illegible] to humanity, I feel it my duty to warn you of [illegible]. A clan has been formed for your benefit. I [illegible] overheard them. They are determined, [illegible] men—14 in number, and just as sure as one [illegible] is found working in your factory, [illegible] time, just so sure will you have a rope [illegible] neck or something worse. They mean it [illegible] encourage and back them in it. All the [illegible] now here will be hung soon, if they don't [illegible] tell you this as A FRIEND.
[illegible] hundred men or more, here and in this country, will [illegible] in it if it comes to a fight with the officers. If [illegible] wisely, you will turn off every Chinaman."

[illegible] following letter was post marked Oregon City Jan [illegible], and was evidently written by a female [illegible]:

"Mr. Howell I am a good frind to you [illegible] you have [illegible] to some-one who has worked in the factoree— [illegible] to me and everybody in the factoree likd you [illegible] want to see you killed but just as sure as there [illegible] in heaven—if you do what is said you are agoing [illegible] will bee killed, the first one—beause I hered them [illegible] say so. they said Howell is a brave man and [illegible] like hell—and will be apt to kill a dozen or too [illegible] you know what you are about—and then one [illegible] by god we will put his lite out first—we have [illegible] shooting gentleman and will fix him [illegible] I think you had better do this let them theaving [illegible] fight there own battles—they dont pay you to do [illegible] and you never will get any thanks—it is [illegible] that you have your office full of guns & pistols— [illegible] advice—remember you have a wife and babys to [illegible] fight it out. I am one who over heard it all—some being my own folks—too.
A FEMALE FRIEND."

[illegible] to the above, Mr White, of this city, in[illegible] the Managers had intended to hire about a [illegible] chinamen, to do certain kinds of work [illegible] they can do as well as anybody, at about half the [illegible] white labor; that the whole number of chinamen [illegible] would then be about twenty; that there would [illegible] fifty white employees in and about the mill; [illegible] managers will pay no attention to the above [illegible] will employ the prop[illegible] when they get ready to start the mill again [illegible] work; that they will not submit to [illegible] but will employ whom and as many as they [illegible] Ku Kluxes to the contrary notwithstanding.

[illegible]—We clip the subjoined items from the [illegible] of yesterday: On last Saturday while letting [illegible] at the woolen mill in this city, the end of [illegible] torn off, necessitating a stoppage of the [illegible] It was repaired on Monday, and is now in run[illegible] ....The sidewalks and crossings are getting in [illegible] condition along the principal streets. In many [illegible] the crossings are on a level with the streets, and [illegible] are almost buried with mud.....Rumors circulated all round town the past week that [illegible] had brought to Portland two or a [illegible] small pox, and also that three or four had [illegible] in one of the hotels and other parts of [illegible] had not a shadow of truth to base a story [illegible] fourth Quarterly C[illegible] of the Co[illegible] Sabbath School of this city came off last Sunday [illegible] addresses were delivered by Rev. INTELLIGENCE.—From the Advocate we get [illegible] religious items: Rev. J. H. Allyn, of St. [illegible] 11th: During the past week $50 [illegible] this place for the purchase of a new [illegible]. It is much needed, and with this [illegible] we expect to have one in a [illegible] or two. [illegible] Mather writes from Kirbyville, January [illegible] been having an interesting meeting at [illegible] additions to the Church, all heads [illegible] religious enjoyment was never so good [illegible] H. C. Jenkins in a note from [illegible] 11th, says: This is the fourth week of [illegible] meeting in this place, and the interest is [illegible] Father Smith of Corvallis is here, and has [illegible] great acceptability and marked effect. We [illegible] Lord greatly to revive his work.....Revival [illegible] reported at Eugene City in connection with [illegible].

[illegible] STATUE.—A farmer living on the Payette [illegible] recently hewed an equestrian statue of [illegible] out of mountain fir, and presented it to the [illegible] The Statesman speaks of it as a wonderful [illegible] Its finish is complete, and as it now stands [illegible] covered with rich bronze, one can hard[illegible] he looks upon a work shaped, not in the [illegible] tors, but with rude tools in a mountain [illegible] Idaho. The speeches were in good [illegible] of the artist is Charles Ostner. He is [illegible] and has been at work on the statue at [illegible] the last three years.

[illegible] IN EASTERN OREGON.—We have information [illegible] snow has fallen in Mormon Basin [illegible] entertained that the natural supply of water [illegible] purposes, will be light this season. The [illegible]: "A letter from Mr. C. H. TEMPERANCE.—We had supposed that the Good [illegible] entirely supplanted the order of Sons of [illegible] in Oregon, and that the last Division of the [illegible] long since ceased to exist. This, however, was [illegible] Liberty Division No. 1, located near Silverton, [illegible] still lives, and the following is a list of [illegible] elected Jan. 9th, by W. R. Dunbar, D. G. W. [illegible] State of Oregon: J. W. Shrum, W. P.; [illegible] W. A.; T. B. Leonard, R. S.; A. C. [illegible] F. S.; Alex. Thompson, F. S.; Mary Geer, [illegible] Wilbur, Chaplain; T. O. [illegible] PORTLAND.—A recruiting office, it seems, [illegible] at this city. The following is an extract [illegible] Order No. 8, issued from Headquarters De[illegible] of the Columbia, Jan. 14th, detailing an officer [illegible]: "Lieutenant Duncan Sherman, 1st Cavalry, is [illegible] from duty at Camp Watson, Oregon, and [illegible] without delay to this city, and report in per[illegible] Headquarters for Recruiting Service."

[illegible] FATHERLAND.—Among the passengers by the [illegible] on Thursday, was Mr. F. C. Sels, of Grant [illegible] late contestant for the seat in the State Sen[illegible] by Mr. Dreibelbis. He has started on a [illegible] and relatives in Germany, with the [illegible] however, of returning to Oregon next sum[illegible] wish him favoring breezes and a safe return.

[illegible]—The following officers of Overland Lodge, [illegible] O. F., at Umatilla, were installed by E. [illegible] D. G. H., on the 1st inst.: Lot Livermore, N. [illegible] Whitney, V. G., J. T. Briggs, R. S.

[illegible] SERVICES.—There will be religious services [illegible] Theater Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Sub[illegible] "Buried Talent." Sermon by Rev. Mr. [illegible]

[illegible] FRENCH.—After the celebration of High [illegible] Catholic church to-morrow morning, Rev. [illegible] will deliver a sermon in the French lan[illegible]

[illegible]—Prof. Cardinell's regular weekly [illegible] place this evening at the Washington [illegible]

ORO FINO THEATER.—Fanchon the Cricket was played last evening to a very fair house. Mrs. Bates played Fanchon with charming spirit notwithstanding it was her first essay of the character. The shadow dance would have been a [illegible] if the audience could have seen the shadow. The Audience Festival was splendidly done by all. The personation of Old Fadet, the witch, by Miss Field, was really an excellent performance and we think she fairly divided the honors with Fanchon. The last two acts would have been better done if Mr. Robinson had been better up in his part, though, really, he was not much worse than one or two of the others. But after all, the play went off quite well, and considering the scanty amount of labor performed thus well by all the stage people it seems something like injustice to find fault with any of them. Fanchon will be performed again to-night, when, doubtless, the imperfections of last night will not appear.

REMOVAL AND ENLARGEMENT.—Messrs. Corbitt & Macleay have not been very long in business in this city, yet they have pursued such a policy in trade, as has secured them an immense business in this state, and with the [illegible] and a popularity with customers which very few firms have gained in so short a time. Their trade had grown to such proportions that their former place of business proved too small, and on the 1st of the month, they removed to the commodious buildings corner of Front and Pine streets, and extending back to First street, where they now have an immense stock of goods, and are ready to see all their old and as many new customers as may favor them with a call. See their advertisement, new this morning.

NOT SUNK.—The report of the sinking of the Active above Albany proves to have been exaggerated. The steamer did stave a hole in her hull, but she was run upon the beach, relieved of her load, pumped out, with no great delay, and on Thursday she arrived at Oregon City where she was put in the dry dock and repaired, in time to start up the river again, yesterday morning. Not a very bad sink, that!

CHAIN GANG.—The Commercial, which appears to be the street commissioner's organ, says: "John Wesley has been deputized as a special officer to take charge of the chain gang, (prisoners of the city,) while engaged doing duty under orders of the street commissioner." Is this John Wesley the venerable individual of the Siwash persuasion, who rejoices in that name?

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—This Court will resume its sitting this morning, when a decision will be rendered upon the motion for a new trial in the case of the United States vs E. G. Randall.

G. A. R.—The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Portland Post of the G. A. R., will take place this evening. All comrades are requested to attend.

MATINEE.—The Mother-in-law will be performed at the two o'clock Matinee, at Oro Fino Theater, to-day.

Small Pox.

The following is condensed from Dr. L. Elliot's San Francisco pamphlet on vaccination, re-vaccination, and how to prevent small pux:

Before vaccination was introduced, the deaths annually from small pox in Prussia were about 40,000; in Great Britain and Ireland, about 35,000, and during the eighteenth century this dread disease destroyed in Europe alone 45,000,000 of lives—nearly double the present inhabitants of the United States. The death rates of the most terrible wars have been most meagre indeed compared with those of this fell destroyer, and it is probable by this means the dark Angel of Death has gathered together under his sable wings more victims than have fallen by any other scourge or pestilence known to our race. Although small pox had ravaged Iceland [illegible] years before, it never appeared in Greenland till 1834, when it was carried thither by a vessel from Denmark, nearly two-thirds of the whole population of the country were swept away by the disease. Of two hundred families living within a circle of from two to three miles from the Danish settlements, into which small pox was brought, not thirty remained alive. In this truly awful epidemic 18,000 persons were smitten down, out of a population of 40,000. Empty houses and unburied corpses, some within and some without the depopulated houses, are described. In one island they found only one little girl, with small pox upon her and her three little brothers; the father, having first buried all the people in the place, had laid himself and smallest sick child in a grave raised with stone, and ordered the girl to cover him!

It had long been a popular belief in some countries among the work hands on dairy farms, that no person who had the cow pox could afterwards have the small pox. (The cow pox is a slight eruption of pimply disease, communicated from the teat or udder of the cow to the hands of the milker.)

Dr. Jenner, after hearing the people of Gloucestershire remark this, resolved to test the truth of the popular belief by direct experiment, and on the 14th of May, 1776, matter was taken from the hand of Sarah Nelmes, who had been infected by milking her master's cows, and inserted into the arms of James Phipps, a healthy boy. It took well, as the phase now is. But now came the question most dangerous to settle. Was he secure from small pox? And to settle this, the brave little patient (only eight years old) submitted to have fresh small pox matter inserted into his arms in three or four places, but no disease followed.

Thenceforward vaccination became general, and in comparatively few years, universal both in Europe and America. Small pox has ever since existed; but in its ancient, frightful epidemic form, vaccination has conquered it. Disinfectants, proper diet, fresh air, and healthy exercise are all well enough, but the only certain preventive is vaccination by a skillful physician with pure vaccine. Thorough vaccination in infancy is best—a poor vaccination often prevents a good one taking effect, and does not prevent the small pox. The control of vaccine matter and its distribution should belong exclusively to the General Government. When the matter is used, a small particle should be detached, thoroughly dissolved, and inserted in the arm or other parts of the body with a clean instrument, used for no other purpose, and the operation performed by a person of experience.

We have noticed some physicians who dissolved the lymph and kept it in glass for several weeks, using it in this shape for hundreds of persons. The matter should be kept perfectly dry and away from contact with air as much as possible. The virus becomes putrid in a few hours after having been used, often produces death when used in this condition, and is of no possible benefit.

Innoculation is not resorted to by physicians, and in some countries is prohibited by law. Pure small pox matter, taken fresh from a patient ill of small pox and introduced into the body of a well person, will produce a form of disease, in most cases, infinitely more mild than the contagious disease, and this is called innoculation. About April, 1717, Lady Montague, wife of the English Minister at the Ottoman Court, introduced innoculation into the Christian world. This lady ascertained that the Turks believed small pox purposely produced was so much more mild than when caught accidentally that it was almost without danger. The principal objection to it was that it kept the poison alive in a community while vaccine dies out. Innoculation had been used to prevent the fatality of small pox in Tartary at an early day.

Widow is one of the very few words, if indeed there is another, of which the feminine form is the original; for owing to the traits, functions and relations of the sexes, among no people would a peculiar name be first given to a man who was deprived of a woman. It would only be after the condition of a widowhood had been recognized, and conventional usages had narrowed and straightened the sexual relations, that it would enter the mind of people to give widow its masculine companion word. I cannot but admit that in English this has been clumsily done. Widow is a poor, feeble word in all respects, and particularly in respect to etymology. Widower should mean one who makes widows, or one who has widows; and how this word happened to receive its present form is beyond my conjecture.—Galaxy.

Promptly on the 4th of next March, the Grant Administration will take up the unfinished business on the Executive table. The Alabama business with England, and the St. Thomas business with Denmark will be the main questions abroad; at home, the whisky ring, the Indian question, and the unregenerate rebels at the South. The indications now are that the President and his Secretary of State will leave work enough unfinished to occupy the new Government for several months.

The canal across the Isthmus of Suez will, as Mr. De Lesseps, its author and builder confidently announces, be ready for use in October next. Though much will remain for the complete finishing of the work, it will then be opened for the passage of vessels of all sizes between the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. The cost of this magnificent enterprise, when it is all done, will be eighty millions of dollars.

The story telling politicians of Washington all have their bits of anecdote about Thad. Stevens. One of them claims to have heard from him, through a spiritual medium, on the morning when the eulogies on his name were to be delivered in the House. He was asked whom he preferred as speakers on the occasion, and replied, "I don't care a d—n, as I won't have to listen to them."

At a recent Milwaukee wedding between a bridegroom of 61 and a bride of 57, the couple danced a reel with great spirit, the bride remarking that she always wanted a young husband.

WAS METHUSELAH DROWNED IN THE FLOOD.—We make the following extracts from an article contributed to the Louisville Democrat:

All we know of the origin of our race we learn from Revelation. The chronology used by the civilized world is founded on the dates furnished us in the Bible. We reckon the date of the flood from the dates found in the sixth chapter of Genesis. We learn from this chapter that Adam lived before his son Seth was born 130 years, Seth lived before his son Enos was born 105 years, Enos lived before his son Cainan was born 90 years, Cainan lived before his son Mahalaleel was born 70 years, Mahalaleel lived before his son Jared was born 65 years, Jared lived before his son Enoch was born 162 years, Enoch lived before his son Methuselah (687) was born 65 years, Methuselah lived before his son Lamech was born 187 years, Lamech lived before his son Noah was born 182 years. Noah, hence, was born Anno Mundi, 1056. In Genesis, 7th chapter, 6th verse, we are informed that Noah was 600 years old when the flood of water was on the earth. Add 600 years (his age) to 1,056, the date of the flood. We learn from the 27th verse, 5th chapter of Genesis, that "all the days of Methuselah were 969 years, and he died." By reference to the foregoing table it will be seen that Methuselah was born Anno Mundi 687, add his age, 969, to 687, the date of his birth, and we have 1656, the time "when the flood of waters was upon the earth." The conclusion is as certain as figures that the oldest man died in the year of the flood. Was he drowned for his wickedness?

Josh Billings thinks most enny man will concede that it looks very foolish to see a boy drag a heavy sled up a steep hill for the fleetin' pleasure of riding down agin; but it appears to me that that boy is a sage by the side of the yung man who works hard all the week and drinks his stamps up Saturday nite.

TEETH EXTRACTED
By Dr. Richardson's Apparatus, Lately Improved by Dr. Koehler, with Ether Spray.
WILLIAM KOEHLER,
DENTIST.
OFFICE—Southwest corner Front and Yamhill streets, opposite E. J. Northrup & Co.'s Hardware Store.
I am now making, amongst other numerous styles of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, the improved Vulcanite Plates of Dr. G. W. Cool's Patent, patented Dec 24, 1867, the improvement of which consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold; it not only makes the plate double as strong but lighter than the common Vulcanite Plate. It also can by it be made considerably thinner and lighter, whereas the price is but little above that for common Plates. Call and see specimens.
N. B.—Dentists wishing to secure the office right for Dr. G. W. Cool's Improved Vulcanite Plates, can have it made out to them by applying to the office.
N. B. To strangers I would say, that a constantly increasing Dental Practice for the last five years in this city, will be a sufficient guarantee for them to receive a First-Class and Finished Piece of Work. Numerous testimonials to the same can be given at the office.
Dental Consultations Free of Charge to all.

G. VENARD,
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.
HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

WOLFE'S CELEBRATED AROMATIC SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS.
TO THE CITIZENS OF OREGON:
I BEG LEAVE TO CALL THE ATTENTION OF THE citizens of Oregon to my celebrated AROMATIC SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS, a medicinal Diet Drink of eminently salutary qualities manufactured by myself, exclusively, at my factory at Schiedam, in Holland.
In Gravel, Gout and Rheumatism, in Obstructions of the Bladder and Kidneys its efforts are prompt, [illegible], and invariably reliable.
It is now some twenty years since the Proprietor first introduced it to the American public, and during that time he has received over 3,000 letters from physicians, endorsing it as the purest liquor they have ever used in their practice.
It is made from barley of the finest quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the [illegible] of the aromatic juniper berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every noxious particle.
As a means of preventing and correcting [illegible] ble and often dangerous effects produced on [illegible] and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers, new settlers, and all unacclimated [illegible] are peculiarly liable—the
SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS
Will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys [illegible] of the bladder, stricture, dyspepsia and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.
It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac simile of his signature on the label. For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants.
Are you WEAK, DEBILITATED, NERVOUS? Is your sleep disturbed? Do you have palpitation of the heart or an inclination to melancholy? [illegible] of such nature require a prompt DIURETIC, which will be found in

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, Jan. 1[illegible], 1869

Gold closed, yesterday, at New York at 13[illegible].

Legal Tenders at San Francisco, yesterday, 7[illegible] buying, 74¼ selling. Average price in this market, 72[illegible]c.

New York—Wheat has declined to $2@2 05. Flour $[illegible]@11 25.

Liverpool—Wheat quotations declined to 11s 2d.

San Francisco—Flour—the recent heavy receipts from Oregon have depressed the markets for these brands, some of which are offered as low as $5; city mills superfine, $4 75@4 87½; extra, $5 75@5 87½. Wheat—shipping, $1 75; choice, $1 80. Barley, quotable at $2 20@2 30 for feed, and $2 30@2 [illegible] for brewing. Oats quotable at $2 15@2 25 for Oregon and $2 10@2 2[illegible] for California.

Portland—All brands of flour have been reduced from 25c to 50c per barrel. Sales are [illegible] at even this reduction. Wheat remains nominally at 65@70 per bushel, but recent purchases have been made up the valley upon terms more favorable than that to the buyer. The produce market, throughout, is extremely [illegible].

The steamship Continental sailed yesterday, with about 900 tons freight, the greater part of which was flour. A much larger quantity was offered than the ship could possibly take. Shippers, however, have no idea of realizing any considerable profit, their purpose being more to realize, before a further decline in the San Francisco market, which is certain to occur. Savier & Co. shipped by the Continental, 1,050 gunnies Imperial for Boston.

Merchandise market rather quiet, though much better than at corresponding period last year. The principal operations have been in groceries and dry goods. In the latter line there has been a considerable improvement over the preceding week, orders from the country having come in pretty freely. Prices, however remain unchanged.

Retail trade, during the week, has been a shade livelier, the weather having been such as to permit people from the country to get into town.

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

CHANCE OF NAME!

MERCADO & CO., SUCCESSORS TO Mercado & Seully, have been obliged for their own protection and the safety of the public, to change the name of their celebrated Bitters to

MERCADO'S Native California Wine BITTERS

We subjoin the following affidavit in an injunction suit formerly pending between Mercado & Seully, plaintiffs, and G. A. Simon, defendant:

P. Sainsevain, being duly sworn, says, "That the article known as Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters was manufactured by Mercado & Seully, about the month of March, 1864, without the said Sainsevain Brothers having any concern in the manufacture thereof. The deponent has always known and considered said Mercado & Seully as the Sole Proprietors of the Sainsevain California Wine Bitters."

Notwithstanding the above affidavit the said P. Sainsevain is putting up a compound under the name of Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters, representing it to be the same as our celebrated Bitters, which we have been manufacturing and selling in immense quantities since 1860, and also affixing a nearly similar label to that used on our genuine Wine Bitters. BE NOT DECEIVED! Send for

NATIVE CALIFORNIA WINE BITTERS,

And you will obtain the same popular beverage so favorably known since 1860. Beware of Counterfeits! Purchasers of our Wine Bitters are requested to observe the familiar old yellow label, and see that the words, "MERCADO & SEULLY, SAN FRANCISCO," are engraved on the Government stamp pasted over the cork of each bottle. This is the only effectual security against the counterfeit imitations.

NOTES.

Proposals must be to carry the mail with "celerity, certainty, and security," using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connections with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained, for neglecting to take the mail from or into a postoffice; for suffering it to be injured, robbed, or lost; and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running vehicles on the route. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for disobeying the post office laws, or the instructions of the Department. He may alter the schedule of departures and arrivals, and also order an increase of service by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may also curtail or discontinue the service in whole or in part, at a pro rata decrease of pay, allowing one month's extra compensation on the amount of service dispensed with. Bids should be addressed to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General," superscribed "Proposals, State of Oregon," and sent by mail. For forms of proposal, &c., and other information, see advertisement of this date, in pamphlet form, at the principal post offices.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter, it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing, AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

OF

Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

TELEGRAMS FROM THE EAST AND EUROPE

are published in full as in the California journals, and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Eastern affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon standpoint.

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.

TERMS:

One Year	$3 00.
Six Months	2 00.
Three Months	1 00.

The WEEKLY OREGONIAN has been a favorite paper for [illegible] to friends in the East. It will be mailed from the office at subscription rates.

Subscribers will find on each paper, with their names, the date on which their subscriptions expire, as entered on our books. In renewing, the name of subscriber and post office should be distinctly written.

All papers are discontinued at the end of the time for which they have been paid, the date of which is always printed with the name each week.

☞ REMIT BY MAIL AT OUR RISK, in presence of Postmaster, or pay to the nearest authorized agent.

We ask our friends to aid us in extending the circulation of the OREGONIAN in every direction.

HIRAM SMITH'S Ophthalmic Panacea!

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered. It CURES the most stubborn and long standing CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been before the public notice. The proprietor is so fully convinced of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm, and a trial of it is therefore without injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, [illegible] and even EIGHTEEN YEARS' standing in [illegible] Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity, to which the following persons will bear witness:

E. B. MOORE,	NATHANIEL [illegible]
A. L. WALLACE,	G. R. WARD,
Mrs. MONTGOMERY,	JOHN M. HO[illegible]
W. D. PORTER,	ROB'T RAMSEY,

And others in that vicinity.

Persons afflicted with the distressing [illegible] diseased eyes are advised to give this remedy a fair trial on the NO CURE, NO PAY and NO INJURY plan.
